Just as the world is accessible at our fingertips, the art of poetry transcends barriers to weave a tapestry of language, evoking profound connections and enriching communication in ways that transcend the limits of words alone. An exciting session on “Verse as Voice: Exploring Poetry's Role in Language and Communication” was organized by the Department of Applied Sciences and Humanities on April 10, 2023, for the students. The session kicked off with a warm welcome by (Prof.) Dr. Vinay Khatri (HOD, ASH) to the distinguished speaker Dr. Sakshi Gupta. The event commenced at 2:30 p.m. sharp with delight and eagerness of the students.

The session comprised an in-depth analysis of select poems, a discussion of poetic techniques, and interactive activities aimed at instilling an understanding of the communicative potential of poetry. Dr. Sakshi Gupta encouraged the students to engage in creative exercises designed to facilitate their poetic expressions and explore the interplay between language, emotion, and message delivery through poetry. Furthermore, she analyzed the role of poetry in enhancing language use and expression. She believes in ways in which poetry facilitates the communication of complex emotions and ideas. The session "Verse as Voice: Exploring Poetry's Role in Language and Communication" provided a platform for participants to delve into the multifaceted nature of poetry and its pivotal role in communication. Overall, the session effectively underscored the profound impact of poetry on language and communication, equipping participants with valuable insights and skills that extend beyond the realm of literary expression. The session ended with the vote of thanks given by the coordinator of the event Ms. Deepa.
