ORIENTATION DAY-2K22

Sankalp... Determined to Compete

An Orientation Program for MCA Students

2nd September,2022

Panipat Institute of Engineering and Technology is home away from home, dedicatedly working towards building future of many and for many. Master of Computer Applications is working continuously to fulfill the dreams of students who have joined the institute for becoming graduates and post graduates in Computer Applications. Hence as per the guidelines of AICTE the Master of Computer Applications organizes two days Orientation Program, titled as Sankalp, to allow the students some time to adapt to their changing lives, their changing routines and changing responsibilities. The Master of Computer Applications considers the holistic development of students of utmost importance and the pool of excellent faculty puts up all possible efforts for the same. Every years the event is organized to provide them direction and guidance for their courses. Here, students are introduced with other students and faculty members. They are informed about their curriculum and events to be held in campus on different occasions. The second aspect of the role of orientation programme is acclimating students to their new environment. After moving into a new neighbourhood, one would ideally like a few days to learn one's way around the new neighbourhood. Likewise, orientation should allow students to get their bearings in their new home. For some students, going to college is their first time away from home, so orientation should give them time to become familiar with their new surroundings. New students should meet their roommates and find their classrooms. Through guided tours, campus maps, or even time to just wander, orientation provides a safe avenue for new students to find their way around campus. By moving on campus before classes starts, the new students are able to learn the ropes and not seem so green by the time the academic year begins. Students should become familiar with both physical locations and the workings of the environment during orientation.

HOLI CELEBRATION-2K22

On 17th Mar 2022, Holi, the festival of colours comes with full of happiness around the people where people used to get involved for the lots of happiness and good deeds and activities across every year was celebrated in the college premises.
